VERDUGO CONQUERED

THREE GLENDALE LADS BLAZE NEW TRAIL UP MOUNTAIN

Three bright, manly young lads of Glendale are showing a public spirit that might well be emulated by other young boys and young men of this city.

Like all true Young Americans, these youths love the great outdoors. They often climb the trail leading to Verdugo mountain which, while steep and abrupt in many places, offers but little hardship to boys. With true apperception, however, they recognized the arduousness of the climb for older people, especially women, and the need of another path of gentle grade.

To think was to act; by easy degrees a trail was started that winds up and around the first knoll on the valley side. Thus, you can get a continually enlarging panorama of city and valley without having to stop and turn in your tracks as you had to do on the old trail. The new walk is exhilarating and inspiring without being exhausting. Doubtless it will soon become well known and enjoyed by the people of the community. The path starts westward from the head of Louise street. It is not meant to lead principally to Verdugo mountain but to connect to the wide trail on the ridge that runs from that mountain over to Deadhorse canyon. While not yet done, it is rapidly nearing completion. Walking on the trail, one would hardly believe that three boys, each around fourteen years of age, would throw the amount of earth required to blaze their way up this old mountainside—and part of the way is hewn out of disintegrating rock! They began work on the last Thursday in December. Since that time they have been able to get in one full day a week besides about three days a week after school.

These boys are boys of purpose—one has already planned to become either a doctor or a lawyer. They are: Normand Tuft, residing at 1421 Burchett street; Harold Cummings, 215 South Maryland street; and Robert Tower, 118 South Maryland street.

CORNER STONE LAYING

To-morrow promises a great forward step in the religious life of Glendale. The First Methodist church congregation will lay the corner stone of its new church. The service will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Bishop James W. Bashford will officiate.

Bishop Bashford is well known as one of the great missionary heroes of the church. His influence in China has touched the entire country. He is in close touch with all the national movements of the new republic. It will be a great privilege for Glendale to hear this Christian statesman.

Seating accommodations will be provided and all are invited.

WEST GLENDALE UNION

Mrs. Pierson Hanning, 1551 Hawthorne street, was charming hostess to the West Glendale W. C. T. U. Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was one of especial interest to young mothers. Mrs. Hattie Gaylord was present and gave an instructive talk. Mrs. F. Houdyshe, an old-time worker from Kansas, gave some interesting reminiscences of the temperance movement in that state. Mrs. Florence Smith, vice-president, occupied the president's chair. Mrs. Cooke being too ill to be present. Chocolate and cake added to the already pleasurable occasion.

MRS. LOGAN ENTERTAINS

Chapter A. H. of the P. E. O. met with Mrs. John A. Logan at her home, 203 North Central avenue, Friday, the state organizer, Mrs. Garvin being present to inspect the work of the chapter. Twenty-six sat down to the daintily appointed luncheon, iris and white lilies carrying out the pretty lavender and white color scheme. Besides the members of Chapter A. H. there were present as guests Mrs. A. L. Bryant of Chapter L, and Mrs. D. H. Smith of Glendale and Mrs. Clemens of Tropic, both members of Chapter D of Los Angeles.

W. R. C. MEETING

N. P. Banks Woman Relief Corps held a very interesting meeting at G. A. R. hall Friday afternoon. Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. S. Hayes of Tropic gave very enjoyable talks. Mrs. Hayes was a delegate to the national convention held at Kansas City and she gave a very interesting account of the proceedings at the convention. Mrs. Milligan's talk was also listened to with great interest.

AT GLENDALE HIGH

BIOLOGISTS FIND EXCITEMENT—BOOK EXCHANGE—BIG DEBATE PLANNED

Several dozen biology students yesterday made a trip to the Los Angeles riverbed in search of bugs and spiragira. They found trouble. One of the machines in which the class made the trip, while attempting to cross the river, sank deeply into the quicksand. Another machine was called to its aid. It met the same fate. Mr. Howe with his Ford was the last victim. Old "Dobbin" was called to the rescue and the youthful scientists came home in a truck.

The school book exchange will become active again with the beginning of the new semester. Students who have old books which they desire to sell need only take them to this department, where they will be listed and offered for sale. Mr. Joy has issued a list of the books to be used during the coming semester.

English: Brooks' English Comp. Bk. 1, Wooley Handbook of Comp., Halleck English Lit., Pace Readings in Amer. Lit., Gay-Young Prin. Prog. Eng. Poetry.

Latin: Smith Latin Lessons, Walker Caesar, D'ooze Composition. German: Spanhoofd Elementarbuch, Spanhoofd Lehrbuch, Bacon Vorwärts, Bacon im Vaterland.

The Senior baseball team won over the Junior nine in a farce comedy Friday afternoon. This was a game which the class of '18 contested last year, and which the Seniors consented to play over. The score was 8-0.

The following men placed in the order named on the G. U. H. S. track team: Mile—Sharpe, Padelford, Brown; 440—Angmayat, Seay, Dopp; 100—Weaver, Eckles, Seay; 50—Eckles, Seay, Dopp; Shot-put—Sheriger, Wilson, Williams; Discus—Sheriger, Williams, Wilson; High jump—Wilson, Hurd, Creswell; Broad jump—Wilson, Eckles, Keyes.

The complete program follows: Selection, G. U. H. S. Orchestra. Reading, "The Old Swimming Hole", Ed. Seay.

REV. AND MRS. STONE HERE

Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Stone, who are stopping temporarily in Los Angeles, were in Glendale on Thursday. They were luncheon guests of Mrs. Harriett Dow on Orange street and after a delightful auto ride with Walter Dow in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Stone took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Banker of 231 Cedar street. Rev. Stone was pastor of the Glendale Baptist church several years ago.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Cora L. Deacon of 1615 Oak street wishes to announce the marriage of her son Walter David to Evelyn Mae Holden on Wednesday afternoon, January twenty-fourth, at five o'clock, Rev. Norcross of the West Glendale Methodist Episcopal Church officiating.

The wedding was originally planned for the early summer, but on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Deacon, it was deemed advisable to have a quiet ceremony with only immediate relatives present.

DINNER PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Boyer of 212 Orange street entertained at dinner Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vale of Kenosha, Wis., who are spending the winter at the Maryland in Pasadena. Mrs. Vale is Mrs. Boyer's cousin. Pink carnations and violets were used in the pretty table decorations and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Vale, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pearce and Dr. and Mrs. Boyer.

INITIATE B. I. L.'S

P. E. O. LADIES ENTERTAIN HUSBANDS AT HOME OF MR. AND MRS. EMERY

The spacious home of Mrs. E. U. Emery at 117 South Kenwood was well filled last night, when the P. E. O.'s of Chapter L entertained their husbands. The P. E. O.'s entertain the husbands about once a year and these affairs are looked forward to with pleasure for months. On these occasions the husbands of the members taken in during the year are initiated into the order, and are called the B. I. L. There is some doubt as to the meaning of these mystic letters, some interpreting them as meaning "Boys I Love," and others "Brother-In-Laws," and in various other ways. Mrs. John G. Hunchberger had charge of the entertainment and she was assisted by Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Genevieve Goss, Mrs. Bernice Pulliam, Mrs. Mabel McFadden, Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Mrs. C. D. Lusby and Miss Lorraine Mitchell. Mrs. Hunchberger opened the program with a few happy words of welcome, after which a vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and Miss Lorraine Mitchell in a very beautiful manner and was heartily encored. A three-act charade was then given under the direction of Mrs. Genevieve Goss, the amusing costumes causing much merriment. A vocal solo by Owen Emery, son of the hostess, accompanied by Waunita Emery, was much appreciated and an encore was responded to. A two-act charade followed, after which the initiation of the men took place. The mock service had been composed by Mrs. John Hunchberger and was very clever and amusing, causing gales of laughter to sweep through the house while the gentlemen were being initiated into the mysteries of the B. I. L. The new B. I. L.'s were especially interested in the grip of the order. The song sung during the ceremony was composed by Mrs. Emery. The men initiated were Messrs. Chas. Temple, Chas. Evans, Dana Goss, Laurence Ellis, Perry Maxwell and J. C. Pirtle. The colors of the order, yellow and white, were carried out in the table decorations and the delicious repast served was in charge of Mrs. Frank Dickman, Mrs. Ina Randolph and Mrs. C. H. Bott. All present voted the evening one of the pleasantest ever spent by the P. E. O.

The P. E. O. is an independent organization and was founded in Wellesley college nearly fifty years ago and for many years was called a sorority, but this gradually was changed to sisterhood. It is one of the most exclusive of woman's organizations, members being admitted only by invitation. It was the first woman's club in existence, dating further back than the Sorosis club organized in New York City, which is generally known as the first woman's club. It is a national organization and does a great deal of very splendid work, both in a social and a philanthropic way.

TROPICO M. E. CHURCH NOTES

The lecture given at the church on Thursday night by Rev. McCleary was greatly enjoyed by the many who attended. The subject of the lecture was "The Mission of a Mirthful Nature." A silver offering was taken and half of the proceeds given to the Ladies Aid Society.

The Epworth League called on Miss Irene Mauk of Glendale avenue, who has been ill with the grip, on Thursday evening, and sang for her, after which the members attended the lecture given by Rev. McCleary.

Mrs. Meagher has been ill at her home on Tenth street the past week and a half and has been greatly missed from the choir.

Sunday night the Epworth League of this church will lead at the meeting of the Epworth League of the West Glendale M. E. church. Those in charge will be Frances Millard, Will Hewitt, Will Marple and Emily Kopp.

PROHIBITION AT REDONDO

At a special election held at Redondo Beach Friday a proposition for total prohibition carried by a majority of 252. The measure will go into effect after August 31. A second proposition providing for only one wholesale liquor house, not required to pay a license fee, for every 5000 inhabitants, also carried, which however is nullified by the victory for total prohibition. Out of a registration of 2249, a total vote of 1511, or about two-thirds, was cast.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Sunday. Heavy frost Sunday morning. Light northwesterly winds.

AT STATE CAPITOL

FIRST HALF OF LEGISLATIVE SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—With a final mad scramble by members anxious to swell the plethora of proposed future laws before the limitation placed on them, the first half of the present session of the California legislature closed at noon to-day. For a month the lawmakers of the two houses will receive the plaudits or criticisms of their constituents at home, and then they will return for the final grind—the voting on the measures introduced and referred to committees.

The number of bills introduced at the opening half is about up to the average established in recent years. As usual, the measures proposed to reform or eliminate nearly everything under the sun, but liquor and labor measures predominate, and are certain to precipitate the biggest fights.

It is expected that Governor Johnson, who is soon to resign to become United States Senator, will deliver a lengthy message at the opening of the second half of the session. The session will call for more work in the passage of measures too, as there is a rule limiting each member to introducing not more than two measures during the second half.

Lobbying for and against measures, night work by committees and real log rolling and combinations of members for the success of this or that measure will be the features of the next half.

A method of breaking up the holdings of large tracts of land uncultivated, unimproved and in practically all cases held for speculation, is given by the state tax commission in its report to the legislature to-day. A tax on excess land values is the method proposed and, according to Tax Commissioners Clyde L. Seavey and E. A. Dickson, if such a law is placed upon the statute books it will mark a new era in land taxation in the United States. One of the features of the proposed law is the provisions that the monies received from the excess land tax shall be placed in a permanent fund, which will be invested in securities or loaned under proper restrictions in furthering the building up and development of various sections of the state.

It is proposed that the funds shall be used for the purchase of land, to be subsequently sold for beneficial use; for the installation of reclamation, irrigation and other works that will enhance the value of the land and encourage its development; for the improvement and development of state transportation facilities; for investment in the obligations for the maintenance of a system of credits that will stimulate the actual occupation of the land; and for other public enterprises and improvements.

It is proposed that the interest coming from the investments of the fund may either be added to the original fund by law or distributed equitably throughout the state for general governmental purposes, such as the support of schools, thereby reducing the burden of tax upon the individual property owner.

The present tax system is criticized by the commission, although the retention of various features, such as the separation of assessment of public utility and intangible property, is recommended. However, the system has not resulted in equality in taxation nor in lightening the burden of taxation on real property, it is declared, nor has it corrected the evil of under-valuation by counties.

Other recommendations are: That real estate be assessed once every two years instead of yearly.

An effective tax limitation law. Constitutional amendment to make state budget system permanent.

Fuller co-operation between the functions of the state government and those of counties and cities.

BRITISH COLONIALS MAKE HISTORY

Everlasting pages have been added to British Colonial history in the Battle of the Somme.

Available records of this great struggle show that every one of Britain's overseas contingents has chosen some particular elevation, valley, village or wood whose name will live like America's Bunker Hill.

The Canadians carved their niche of fame at Courcellette. It was the French Canadians here who brilliantly carried out their part of the General Staff's set program and then pressed on, storming the fortress village, filled to the brim with Germans. Competent military authorities say it was simply Canadian valor and impetuosity that put Courcellette behind the Allied lines within an hour, whereas it had been expected to hold out a week. Historical versions of the Battle of the Somme can never be written without the story of the Canadians' dash through and over the complicated defenses the Germans had built at Courcellette. The taking of Regina trench, named in honor of Regina, Saskatchewan, is another feat and name that will find print in every record of Canadian fighting. The Canadians at Ypres is another chapter which has nothing to do with the Somme.

The troops of diminutive New Foundland have selected a November day for annual national observance. The scene of New Foundland's triumph in the Somme struggle will probably be named before many months. Hieroglyphical military maps describe the scene as "F39c2.5 to 40A132." That's all the location it has so far but what happened in that trench filled with New Foundland's enemies is what New Foundland has to be thankful for. The thinned New Foundland bayonets that reduced it to a ditch of dead fought counter-attacks to a standstill while a German artillery barrage smothered life on the ground between them and their original line. Troops working on the right in conjunction with the men from New Foundland were unable to carry their part of the trench. The victorious North American islanders therefore fought their way into every corner of the stronghold and cleared it. They held the trench and have got it yet.

Pozieres is a word that means a lot to the burly Australians. The Antipodal whirlwind which came slowly up the rising ground from Ovillers-la-Boisselle and gained its highest velocity in the shell-scarred ruins of Pozieres will long be remembered by the forces who tried to keep the village. Even Australians give the Germans credit for the most extreme of efforts to hold this keypoint of the ridge that overlooks the Baupaupe plateau. But extreme efforts didn't stop the Australian giants who fought with bombs, bayonets, fists and teeth in and out of every house in the village. Magnificent physique is what won Pozieres, said an authority from the front, that—added to perfect courage and a whole lot of determination.

Delville Wood is already a historical South African name. History at Delville Wood runs back to July 18, when the South African fighters fell back out of the wood on the decimated ranks of Scottish Highlanders who had held their wrecked trenches there for four days. Out numbered six to one the Africans and their kilted compatriots rallied, stopped the enemy's rush, broke him and drove him back to a line which the enemy has tried but has never taken. Delville Wood is so firmly driven into South African history that it will never come out.

The little village of Flers figures most prominently in New Zealand's history of the Somme. Sweeping through this village, in conjunction with supporting troops, they bombed and bayoneted their way into and up and down the German main third line and held their gains.

What was once a few square miles of peaceful, undulating countryside, miniature hills and wooded valleys with miniature red topped, church spired, villages breaking the passage of chalk white roads is to-day a few square miles of blackened shell-scarred desolation. But this small portion of Northern France, which represents a pinhead on an ordinary map, has made more British colonial history than all the former wars. It will make more history in the spring for the whole world, it is believed to-day, but what colonial history it has so far made will probably never be overshadowed.

GOVERNMENT FUR FARM

An experimental fur farm has been established in northern New York by the biological survey of the department. At this farm the government specialists expect to test many kinds of fur animals, foreign as well as native, as to their adaptability to domestication. One of the most important lines of work to be taken up will be that of developing improved strains by selective breeding. This farm is the outgrowth of experiments conducted with minks and martens during the past year at Linden, Md., and the National Zoological Park, D. C.

KNEW MORE ABOUT HENS THAN HISTORY

After reading the famous poem, "The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers," to the class, the teacher said: "As a drawing exercise suppose you each draw, according to your imagination, a picture of Plymouth Rock." All but one little fellow set to work. He paused and finally raised his hand. "What is it, Edgar?" the teacher asked. "Please, ma'am," Edgar piped out, "do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

STUDIES IN PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

By Walt. Le Noir Church
STUDY X. RELIABILITY

Ability without reliability is as genius without conscience; an auto-car without a master; a trouble-maker, par excellence.

The highest exponent of ability without reliability is Satan, himself, going up and down the earth among the children of men, "seeking whom he may devour." He is a seeker who finds.

What more disturbing element in a community, a church, a lodge, a club, or any other association of people for mutual benefit, than is a "crank"—an individual with ability, but without reliability; possessed of a good idea, but lacking the good intentions necessary to prevent that "good idea" from exploding, or acting like a live wire and creating havoc everywhere it is encountered.

It is bad enough when such running amuck be perpetrated by a man; but that is not the most dreaded possibility. What the rude Rudyard wrote about "the deadliest of her species" might apply right here without dislocating the eternal verities. However, let those who think "it is to laugh" unfairly at the fairer sex, remember that Kipling's criticism implies its greater ability—a conclusion, perhaps, that author did not intend.

Yet who can read his Brushwood Boy and doubt the exquisite beauty, ability and reliability of the ideal woman enshrined in that bluff Englishman's Holy of Holies.

I have had opportunity to test the relative reliability of men and women as employees, under varied conditions which enabled me to reach a convincing conclusion.

Without hesitation, mental reservation, or secret evasion in me whatever, the simple truth compels me to admit that woman is the more reliable. That is the rule—not without its exceptions, of course. The elements that have been so long constructing woman's character will endure so long as good outlives evil; continually diluting and transmuted evil, till it, too, becomes good.

The reason that statement is not out of place in this study is the fact that it illustrates the inner meaning and cause of the object of our investigation: Reliability, a descriptive as well as a definitive word meaning Trust-worthy Ability.

Then comes the question: Why is woman's ability more trust-worthy than man's?

The convincing reason is: Because in woman are developed to a higher degree those particular qualities which make for Reliability along the limited lines of employment within which woman was so long confined. The past may be forgotten, but it never dies. Even the good intentions that lose the name and fame of action now, are good seed sown that will be duly harvested by those who need.

Of course certain conclusions need revision, in part at least, since the modern Count-ess of Monte Cristo has leaped from her long imprisonment into free waters, shouting "The World Is Mine."

Having just elected a President of these United States of America, who may say what woman shall not do next?

Now there is a basic reason for the great, radical changes in thought and emotion which at last enfranchised woman. It involves the essential factor in Personality to which this short study is devoted.

What is it?

Simply this: It was the consensus of our people that so much Ability with so little Reliability in our rulers had almost wrecked not a few of our free institutions; and that our civic salvation must come through woman because of her long training, education and practice in those very qualities of righteousness, self-control, and unselfish devotion which constitute Reliability.

Of course many men did and do consider it a dangerous experiment—a dernier resort—even a choice of evils. But they are learning better.

At least many of them are. Others would not give up an old and cherished idea for any consideration. Well, no one can prevent them from "taking is over" with them, where they may consider it under less prejudiced conditions. There, perhaps, they may be able to stand the acid test of admitting fact, in spite of personal prejudice. But, when all is said and done, such a tribute to woman's innate goodness and trust-worthy ability is highest evidence that we men also are awakening to the vital need of more reliability in our own characters; for the lowest, highest, worst and best reason: IT PAYS.

DANIEL'S VISION

PROPHET MADE PREDICTIONS MANY OF WHICH HAVE COME TO PASS

Centuries before Christ appeared upon the earth the prophet Daniel predicted the exact year when he would be baptized and anointed as the Messiah, the exact time of his crucifixion and the date when the probation of the Jews as a nation would be ended, and the gospel be given to the other nations of the world, according to Evangelist Philip L. Knox, who spoke on this theme at Evangel Hall, 115 South San Fernando road, last night. A large crowd was gathered to hear the speaker, who remarked that if there were any infidels present it would be difficult for them to continue skeptical long after studying the predictions made in the eighth and ninth chapters of Daniel, as verified by the facts of history.

"During the captivity of the Jews in Babylon, Daniel was given a vision concerning events then future," said Mr. Knox. "The statement of Daniel 8:14 is that the prophet was told of a cleansing of the sanctuary, which would take place after 2300 days. He says: 'And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me as the appearance of a man. And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.'

"The angel Gabriel began to instruct the prophet in the meaning of this vision, but the 27th verse says Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days. In the ninth chapter we read that the angel returned at a later time to complete his work of making the prophet understand the vision. The 24th and 25th verses quote the words of the angel to the prophet: 'Seventy weeks are determined (or cut off) upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to finish the transgression, and to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy. Know therefore and understand, that from the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem unto the Messiah the Prince shall be seven weeks, and three score and two weeks: the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times. And after three score and two weeks shall Messiah be cut off, but not for himself. . . . And he shall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease.'

"The commandment to restore Jerusalem and to build it, is given in Ezra 7:11-26. The marginal date is B. C. 457. That was the year in which the decree was given. The marginal reference opposite Luke 4 shows it was in A. D. 27 that Christ returned from the Jordan, immediately after his baptism and anointing with the Holy Spirit. 'Messiah' means the anointed One. At his baptism Christ became the anointed One, and he said himself, 'The time is fulfilled,' referring to Daniel's prophecy. The time from the issuance of the commandment of Artaxerxes the king, to build and restore Jerusalem to the Messiah was to be seven weeks plus 62 weeks. This gives us just 483 days. But 483 days are only a little more than a year. Where is the difficulty? In Ezekiel 4:6 we read that God commanded the prophet to bear the iniquity of Judah 40 days. 'I have appointed thee each day for a year,' continues the text. From this and other scriptures we learn that in symbolic prophecy a day represents a year. Daniel fully understood this. Four hundred eighty-three years from the middle of the year 457 B. C. brings us to the time in the year A. D. 27 when Christ was baptized. Just seven years later, in A. D. 34, Stephen, the apostle, was stoned, and Paul consented to his death. But this very circumstance led to Paul's conversion, and he became the great 'apostle to the Gentiles.' The 490 years 'cut off' from the 2300 years, for the Jews, ended when the apostles of Christ turned to the other nations of the world. The Jews as individuals may still be saved through Christ, but as a nation the probation of the Jews closed then. In A. D. 70 Jerusalem was destroyed, and to-day we find these people scattered throughout the world. God having told us their probation as a nation has closed, we may not expect their restoration to Palestine.

"Between A. D. 27 and A. D. 34, just seven years intervene. The prophecy said that in the midst of the week Christ would cause the sacrifice and oblation to cease. For centuries the Hebrews, in showing their repentance for sin, brought each man a lamb to the altar and there killed it, as an atonement for their wickedness. The body of the animal was then burned upon the altar. This was in harmony with God's command, and showed the faith of the individual in Christ's sacrifice of himself in man's behalf, to atone for his sins.

"But why don't we sacrifice lambs to-day? Christ, the 'Lamb of God,' has died. The sacrifice has been made, and we no longer look forward to it. Thus in A. D. 31, just three and a half years after his baptism, Christ was crucified, and thereby caused the sacrifice and oblation to cease.' At that time the great veil, or curtain, in the temple, separated the holy place from the most holy apartment, was torn into two parts from top to bottom by unseen hands, God thereby indicating that that service had no more value."

rating the holy place from the most holy apartment, was torn into two parts from top to bottom by unseen hands, God thereby indicating that that service had no more value."

The speaker announced that tonight at 7:45 the rest of the prophecy will be studied, that the audience would be told what the sanctuary is, which was to have been cleansed after "2300 days." Sunday night the subject will be, "The Standard of the Judgment." The question box will be opened at 7:30. Song service begins at 7:15. Stereopticon views also will be shown. Last night Prof. I. C. Colcord rendered a tenor solo. Messrs. Colcord and Culver gave a duet. Special music will be given both to-night and to-morrow night.

PRESENT, BUT MISPLACED

A young matron who has been attending a cooking school proudly invited her brother to enjoy a spread which she had prepared all by herself.

"Do you still have your old failing of forgetting to put salt in things?" the brother asked.

"I don't think so."

"But really, sis, there isn't any salt in these potatoes."

"There must be."

"Taste them."

The young matron tasted the potatoes, assumed an attitude of deep thought, then cheerfully exclaimed: "Oh, I know where I put it. I put it in the apple pie."—Youngstown Telegram.

LITTLELANDS

Little Lands, Cal., Jan. 23, 1917.

The question is often asked where is Little Lands? If those asking the question could have been here for the last ten days or so they probably would have said it is within about thirteen miles of Alaska. With rain and sleet and snow in the air for days, and the wind coming through the old Tujunga at the rate of something less than forty miles an hour, it certainly did not tax one's imagination to a straining point to really believe they were in Alaska.

Yet we find Little Lands (now called Tujunga) is only about twenty miles north of Los Angeles in the glorious sunny climate of Southern California—that is when we have the sun. The question is often asked also, What gave it its name of Little Lands? The tenderfoot possibly could not give a more logical and better answer than that after diligent labor of blasting and digging out the rocks and stone, you find "little land." One almost stands in wonder and awe at the immensity of the rocks and concludes that here is where the Good Lord finished up the world with an over supply of rocks on hand—and desirous of completing the work in seven days, said "we'll just dump the whole lot right here."

But notwithstanding the abundance of rock, we have to admit the Lord did not make Little Lands in vain. Surely Little Lands has a future mission and purpose to fill in this beautiful little niche of the world. We find here surrounded on all sides by ranges of mountains and hills, a scenic picture that cannot be surpassed, I believe, in the memory of the oldest world traveler for beauty and grandeur. And for health-giving qualities, with its pure invigorating air, coupled with its soft mountain water, surely the Great Giver of good never bestowed upon his erring children a more bountiful supply of life and health-giving qualities than can be found right here. At an elevation of 2000 feet, with the pure air, pure water and scenery unsurpassed in the world, the invalid and tourist cannot help but find health and rest, and with it pleasure that they are domiciled in such a beautiful niche of God's universe.

The writer desires right here to speak of one feature of the health-giving properties of this beautiful paradise of mountain homes, and that is for asthma. Having contracted asthma something over a year ago, after suffering months with it, I came to Little Lands where I found almost immediate relief. After feeling I could go back to my home in Glendale I tried it, but in a few hours I was again overcome with it and returned to Little Lands where I soon got relief again. Have tried it three times now, each time with same results. I speak of this at this time so if any who may read this are likewise afflicted, they may, I hope, get relief as I have by coming to Little Lands. I find a great many afflicted as I am who get relief here. There is a great lack of accommodation for people who have to come here, therefore, I feel confident should some enterprising citizen build and run a hotel-sanatorium and advertise it as a No-Az-Ma hotel-sanatorium they could do well here and add a blessing to mankind and a good name for Little Lands.

My friends, perhaps, will be interested to know that I am running a one-man de luxe apartment, i. e., batching it. I am doing my part in reducing the high cost of living in this simple life. Bah! on pampered aristocracy! When you can get all the "comforts of home" in a 9x10 board cabin, kitchen, living room, sun parlor, sleeping room and bathroom in one. Think of it, you poor overworked aristocratic housewife! Washing of my undershirt once a week and hanging my blankets out to air and with a supply of tin can products for the inner man, what more could a man ask for?

Little Lands is comprised of some five or six hundred people. Good kind hearted people, ready to help one another, and grasp the situation as they find it. No one here has a special patent on any one industry, for apparently each one knows how to do most anything from raising chickens to building houses, stone walls, etc.

For example, the minister, a most worthy earnest and exemplary man, not only helps you to build character to fit you for the mansion above, but with his own hammer and saw will help you to build your earthly mansion, your stone wall, trim your trees, etc., and with open door and hand ready to help the afflicted and poor traveler on his way, and the people with one accord say "God bless our minister." Likewise, the town doctor not only administers sugar coated pills, epinephrine and cuts off your leg if need be, but administers comfort to your feet in the repairing of your shoes, adds years to your looks in the tansorial art and builds your house for you, makes your stone wall, builds your chimney, doctors your stove if it smokes and finally, when you are done with this earthly career, can lay you out to that long rest as tenderly as your own mother would. Do you wonder that every one says "We could not get along without our doctor." Sometimes I believe this will be a very unique and picturesque health resort.

MY CABIN.

How dear to my heart is my little board cabin,
With windows so high I can't see the street,
Where bedrooms and bathroom and kitchen and parlor
Harmoniously blend in one room complete.

Where man's great endeavor to cultivate rock piles
Is crowned with success as you never would dream.
Where women are martyrs (although they don't know it)
Their faces with happiness most radiantly gleam.

My dear little cabin, how snug I am in it,
Of mornings I snooze just as long as I please,
No landlady's chatter disturbs my sweet slumber,

No breakfast bell rings to annihilate ease.
I rise when I'm ready, I eat when I'm hungry,
I cook what I like and I launder my clothes.

The pancakes and syrup taste fine, sir, believe me
No aristocrat bids me to darn up my hose.

Then come ye asthmatics, come thou and do likewise,
Bring plenty of grub (and the cat if you must),
Get back to Dame Nature, to primitive living,

Feast on this fair scene and be happy (or bust).
O! never again will I herd in the city
With thousands and thousands absorbing ozone.

But hie me away to my dear mountain villa
Where everyone joyfully batches alone.

WILMOT PARCHER.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday morning Elder Cole's subject will be, "Christian Education," and in the evening "The Diagnosis of a Christian Endeavorer." Sunday School at 9:30 and Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. We look for a day full of richness. The new furnace heats the church building admirably and keeps the air pure by constant circulation. By the way, there is a nice little story connected with the furnace. Ever since the building was erected, heating facilities were grossly inadequate. Floor furnaces were tried, but they not only failed to give sufficient heat but gave out unpleasant odors. Even the addition of gas stoves failed to relieve the situation. At the meeting of the men's class Monday evening, Fred Thompson, an expert on heating apparatus, referred to the unfortunate condition of the building in the way of heating facilities and proposed that the men take up the matter. He offered to procure a satisfactory furnace and have it installed at just about half price and pay a generous sum toward it. The men took fire at once and in spite of pleas for delay on the part of the more cautious ones, speedily pledged the entire amount. Work began Tuesday morning and on Thursday evening the building was thoroughly equipped with a safe, sanitary furnace that heats it perfectly, thus solving a vexatious problem of years' standing. No one need henceforth stay away from services for fear of not being warm enough.
